

Paco Cuevas Director of Sales & Engineering

A dedicated 14 year employee, Paco gained hands-on experience by working his way up the rank and started out in the shop cutting raw materials for crate assembly, doing packing on site and dispatching. Paco proved to have an intuitive understanding of the business and within 4 years, Paco moved into the management ranks at TransPak. In 1997, Paco added his talents to the Sales team as a sales & design engineer and helped secure TransPak's key strategic customers.

As TransPak grew, Paco's responsibilities did as well and in 2008 Paco took over as Director of Sales and currently leads a team of experienced packaging experts to service the Silicon Valley. Consistently going beyond expectations, Paco directed the creation and implementation of unique crating solutions that have proven his success in the industry.

